Thoroughbred Poultry

Most People Keep Hens. See to it that Your Hens Keep you.

by A. T. H. F. in the Canadian Countryman

Does it pay to raise thoroughbred poultry? This question has been asked by successful poultry raisers to their satisfaction; but it being continually asked by farmers who hereafter have been contented to see a mixed breed of chickens on their farms. Slowly but surely, the old prejudice against so-called "show chickens" is disappearing, and the farmer is beginning to realize that it pays to raise the very best of every thing on his farm, poultry included. Sometimes you see a few fairly good fowls raised from breeding fowls, but there is no certainty in the breeding quality of a mixed flock of fowls. This fact militates against their use in these days of greater efficiency when economic production is essential for greater profits. Some farmers claim that their flock of mixed breeds is harder and lays more eggs than a flock of thoroughbred of the same size. While it is true that the crossing of good blood tends to increase their natural vigor it is not true that the indiscriminate crossing and rearing of mongrel bloods increases egg production or the table qualities of its offspring. The results are quite contrary to those claimed, and such assertions are generally made as an excuse for their author's lack of management, and the neglect of the correct principles of breeding.

We occasionally read about some breeder selling an exceptionally good fowl for a price that ranges up into hundreds of dollars. Now, why do these fowls command such high prices? Because they were thoroughbreds, as were their ancestors before them, because the buyers believed they would be worth that much to them in their breeding yards, and they were willing to pay the price asked for them. Of course, where $100 or more is paid for a single fowl the price is exceptional, but what I wish to impress upon those who are still wanting their time raising mixed breeds is that these prices are made possible by the fact that the seller raised standard bred thoroughbreds. Though such prices are exceptional, it is common practice among fanciers to pay $25 or $50 for fowls for breeding purposes, and three, five and ten dollars for breeding birds are prices too common to occasion comment.

Now, it costs no more to feed these mixed fowls than it does to feed a flock of mongrels, and they will lay more eggs and produce more flesh and in less time than a common mixed lot. It is true that it costs more money to get a start with thoroughbreds, but do not let two or three dollars per head for females or five or ten dollars for male fowls scare you.

Do not be frightened by the prices asked by a reliable breeder. The chances are that they are worth every cent asked for them, for the breeder has used his skill and knowledge,

Pres. Ladies Entertain

The Chicken Pie Supper under the auspices and direction of the ladies of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, last Monday evening, was a most enjoyable event of the season. The menu was most excellent and the program which rounded out the evening's social enjoyment was very fine. The orchestra, consisting of Messrs Shanks, Abel, Cornthwaite and Moffatt, gave several selections and several vocal and instrumental solos were rendered by local musicians. Financially the affair was successful.

Winnipeg, Dec. 8.—Discovers in connection with the awarding of the prizes won by contestants at the Canada Land and Apple Show held here a few weeks ago, reveal the fact that the first award for the best barley was made and announced in error. The prize was sent to a farmer in Saskatchewan, but was returned by him together with the statement that he had no such exhibit at the show, and was not entitled to a prize. Upon looking up the records of the exhibits, it was found that the prize winner was shown by Nick Taitinger, the well known farmer of Claresholm, Alberta, and the prize has consequently been forwarded to him. This adds greatly to the list of Alberta accomplishments. Mr. Taitinger was the first for the best wheat, and the first Perry of Cardston, took the first in oats, and second in barley, so they had prizes all the prizes, which went to Southern Alberta, special commendatory mention being made of the exhibit of fax sent in by Chas. Kone of Lethbridge, which was the prize for the class of exhibit which he entered.

Want Packing Plant

A well attended meeting of the Five Mile Union, I. F. A., was held in the Parish Hall on Saturday afternoon last at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of an cooperative packing plant for South-eastern Alberta. The subject for discussion, According to the government offer if 500000 logs could be secured from a district and the miners could accept a quarter of a cent less than the logging price per b. the government would advance thereby to the point of building and operate a plant. The quarter of a cent per b. would eventually be reduced in shares to each farmer. The logging was very strong for such a plant and over 2000 logs per year were promised at this meeting. A meeting will be held at 8 o'clock next Saturday, Dec. 20th, at which further action will be taken.

Rather Easy Victims

The football match on Saturday between the town team and the Agricultural School, was a rather one-sided affair. The School was very much overmatched and showed the lack of practice. In town work, they were really lacking and there was no absence of passing and dribbling, the ball being booted aimlessly about whenever their opponents would allow. There were several fairly good individual players on the School team and with practice a very strong eleven might be worked out. The town team have several first class footballers and, with more team work and teamwork, would prove quite formidable. There was not one shot made on the town goal during the entire match. Five easy goals were scored against the School. One thing was very much in evidence and that was that the School boys have not learned how to run. Not one boy did they see that "yell" although quite a number of both sets were present. It pained several old college men to witness such an opportunity lost.

Suggested Fair Circuit.

J. R. Watt has received from the secretary of the Okotoks Fair a circular letter requesting delegates from the Agricultural Societies at Macleod, Claresholm, Nanton, Staveland, High River and Drummond to meet at Nanton on Saturday, December 25th, to discuss the subject of a circuit of small fairs. The object would be to continue the judges and also to obtain a letter class of horses than have hitherto been available for the sporting events. The idea would be to have a series of "Two Day" fairs, at two day intervals. So far Claresholm requires no incitement because the Society here has always done its best to do the agricultural people and be interesting, but the idea is a very good one.

A Poultry Lecture

A. W. Foley, B. S. A., superintendent of the poultry branch of the province of Alberta, will give a public lecture in the Assembly Hall at the Claresholm School of Agriculture on Monday evening, Dec. 15th, at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that all who are interested in poultry pursuits will be present.

R. M. Council 1914

The result of the elections of councillors for the Rural Municipality of Argyle No. 39, held on Monday last, in which seven candidates offered their services, was the selection by the ratepayers of Fred Garrow, George Hodge, M. R. Matheson, Geo. Miller, John Robertson and John Stevenson. These six will elect a seven from their number.

Sold to be Good

The Oldfathers of this town deserve great credit for having secured a visit of the Missouri Girl, a high class domestic comedy which is most highly spoken of wherever it has appeared. This great, clean, humorous play will be given at the I. O. O. F. Opera House on December 18th and as the play is already opened and seats are selling rapidly, it will be unwise for any one who intends to see "The Missouri Girl" to put off securing seats very long.

Pres. Anniversary Service

The music was very fine at the anniversary service at St. Andrew's Church last Sunday evening. The choir rendered "Kyrie" from Twelfth Mass, Mozart and "O Come Let Us Worship." The orchestra, Messrs. Auld, Shanks, Condon and Macrae, played Rubenstein's Melody in F. The organ prelude was Hayden's Overture to "The Seasons." Rev. McNeish delivered a practical, thoughtful address and the impression made upon his hearers must have been a deep and lasting one.

Shoot at Smedstad's

There will be a big turkey shoot at the farm of John Smedstad, 14-12-26, on Thursday Dec. 18th, when over 35 turkeys and ducks will go to the lucky or skilled shooters. The game begins at 1 p.m. sharp. The usual conditions will apply to this shoot. Mr. Smedstad has three or four million acres which he wishes to disposed of by private sale. He also has a very fine supply of Merguez wheat for feed which he will sell for 75c. a bushel. Get out and see his gas well in operation.

Little Bow R. M. Organized

The first election in the recently erected rural municipality of Little Bow was held Monday, and the following compose the first council: Division 1, Charles Hunt; Division 2, Andrew Russell; Div. 3, A. P. Hughes; Div. 4, Jonas Untlen; Div. 5, David Scott; Div. 6, Frank Hubka. There were nominations in divisions 1, 2, 4, and 6 and contests in 3 and 5. In Division 5 A. P. Hughes defeated Adam Schaefer, and in Division 3, David Scott defeated E. H. Blue.

Last Week's Lit.

The subject debated at the Agricultural School last Friday evening was "Resolved, that power machinery will take the place of the horse in Southern Alberta." T. McNally, J. W. DeHillinger and R. McLean were the debaters for the affirmative; J. Goody, S. Hillard and Johnston for the negative. The judges were Messrs. Barrett, Jones and Holmes. P. M. Auld made a most efficient critic. The decision was given to the affirmative. The remainder of the evening was spent pleasantly in games and dancing. J. W. DeHillinger and T. McNally had been chosen to go to Okotoks for the High School Debating League fixture and J. McNally and J. Goody were to meet the two Okotoks speakers here. But the withdrawal of Okotoks from the contest has altered these plans.

and in another year or two you will be shaking hands with yourself because of your good judgment.

The demand is for "better poultry and more of it," and when you are in better positions to supply this demand than the farmers scattered over the country? Make up your mind that the best is now too good for you and do not be satisfied until you have the best, for mongrels are not the best. They are not even "good enough," and are utilizing space that should be occupied by thoroughbreds. Contact the poultry and farm on the same business principles that you do your blooded cattle and dogs and see if it does not pay you a greater percentage on the amount invested than any other crop on the place.

During the winter months fresh eggs are high in price and little more difficult to procure, and the question arises, is this condition of the egg market due to the fact that the common fowls of the country are poor winter layers, or is it due to being poorly housed and insufficiently fed?

In order to throw some light on this subject, and also determine whether Leghorns or mongrels are profitable as egg producers, an experiment was carried through.

In the summer fifty young pullets, each of the typical of the common stock of the country, were bought from farmers. A few of them showed traces of Bred Plymouth Rocks and Light Brahma blood. Two or three showed traces of Leghorns, but in color, but were provided with crests, and the rest of them were of various colors. They were allowed to run at large until fall. Then they were divided into two lots and placed in the living houses provided for them. Fifty Single Comb White Leghorn pullets of approximately the same age as the mongrels were selected and placed in two similar houses.

The experiment began in the middle of November. The general plan of conducting the experiment was as follows: The feed was carefully weighed for each lot and placed in covered boxes in the houses. The actual feeding of the fowls was entrusted to a boy, who, it is believed, gave the fowls a careful attention as they would have received on the average farm.

The mongrels fed with grain scattered in the litter in the morning and a mash at night. The whole grain consisted of equal parts by weight of corn and oats. No wheat was fed. The ground grain was mixed with skim milk and the rest of the time with water.

The average weight of the mongrels at the beginning of the test was 3.41 pounds, and at the end of the year 4.31 pounds, while the Leghorns weighed 3.14 at the beginning and 3.34 at the end of the test. Consequently the mongrels gained considerably more in weight than the Leghorns.

The total amount of food consumed for the mongrels per head, without taking into account the skim milk, was 69.8 pounds, and the total cost of food was $10.21 and $0.83 for the mongrels and Leghorns respectively.

The mongrels produced eggs to the value of $1.74 and the Leghorns to the value of $2.24. If we deduct the cost of food from the value of the eggs there remain balances of $0.86 and $1.40 for the mongrel and Leghorns respectively. If we take into consideration only the cost of food consumed and the value of the eggs produced then the Leghorns gave 58 cents per head more profit than the mongrels. The mongrels gained 10 weight one pound per head more than the Leghorns. Valuing this at 13 cents per pound (the then ruling price), the Leghorns gave 40 cents more net profit per hen than the mongrels.
